

Litigating Motions to Compel Arbitration

Tools and techniques

In today's legal landscape, arbitration has become an integral method for resolving disputes in a cost-effective manner. Arbitration offers numerous advantages, including efficiency and confidentiality, often making it a preferred choice in resolving disputes. However, navigating the process of compelling the opposing party to arbitrate can present unique challenges. This program equips you with essential strategies and practical techniques to effectively persuade reluctant parties to engage in arbitration and to compel and oppose arbitration through motion practice.

Whether you are representing corporate clients or individuals, or are involved in international arbitration, this program provides you with the tools needed to successfully advocate for and against arbitration. Enhance your arbitration advocacy skills and empower yourself to achieve favorable outcomes for your clients.

Agenda

- Crafting Persuasive Arguments for Arbitration
- Analyzing Jurisdictional Issues and Challenges
- Effective Procedural Tactics to Compel and Oppose Arbitration
- Addressing Challenges and Objections to Arbitration from Opposing Parties
